THE GETTYSBURG COMPILER.

WITH A HISTORY COVERING ALMOST EIGHTY-SEVEN YEARS

A Newspaper That Has Represented Democracy Since the Days of Jefferson—Story of Its Career

The Gettysburg COMPILER, eighty-seven years old soon, is the oldest paper in Gettysburg and Adams county continuously printed under one name. It was the COMPILER when it first saw the light of day Sept. 16, 1818, and the COMPILER to-day in issuing the largest regular edition of the paper ever turned out. The only change has been in the prefix, from The Republican COMPILER to the Gettysburg COMPILER. A change that became necessary when the great political party of the first name was born and the paper adhered to the political faith of the fathers—the doctrines of Jefferson and Jackson.

There has been no change politically in almost a century of existence in what the COMPILER has stood for. Its principles were rock bound to a government of the people, by the people and for the people—principles of a true Democracy. In the first issue was reprinted the Declaration of Independence, then about forty-four years old, and the editor stated that he had inserted it for the purpose of "keeping in remembrance the causes which produced it and the grievances under which our fathers labored and expressing our approbation of the sentiment which it contains."

Jacob Lefever, first publisher and editor of the COMPILER, announces his undertaking thuswise:

PROPOSALS

For Publishing a Weekly Newspaper in the Borough of Gettysburg, Adams County, Pennsylvania

TO BE ENTITLED

THE REPUBLICAN COMPILER.

It is generally expected, that proposals of this nature should contain some information respecting the course which the editor intends to pursue in the discharge of his duties. This is customary, and it is also deemed proper—a brief outline is therefore presented to the public, and, should he deviate therefrom, the subscribers will very properly withdraw their support.

Though there has been a great deal said about the "era of good feelings," and the "Union of parties," yet, it is believed that circumstances may occur which will revive political contentions; if, indeed, they are not already much more violent, between parties calling themselves Republican, than is consistent with the repose and happiness of our country. Consequently it is thought necessary to state, that the "COMPILER" shall be conducted on Democratic Republican principles; with a constant aim to assist in rendering the liberty and prosperity of our country permanent. Its columns shall, nevertheless, be open to all parties, for the discussion of affairs of a public nature and general interest—provided personal attack and acrimony of language be avoided.

The Editor will not permit his paper to become a vehicle for the promulgation of private bickerings, or personal observations on private characters. But the conduct of men in public stations will be considered as a proper subject of investigation, and of fair and honorable animadversion, where it may be thought necessary.

The most important articles of Foreign and Domestic intelligence will be regularly published, together with such essays on Agriculture, Manufactures, &c., as may be thought most worthy of attention. In short, every exertion shall be made to render the "COMPILER" as useful and instructive as possible to every class of society.

JACOB LEFEVER.

It was also stated that the paper would be delivered in the borough of Gettysburg on Wednesday morning and forwarded to those in the county by the first opportunity. The terms were $2 per annum, $1 to be paid on receipt of the first number, and $1 at end of every six months. For almost thirty years it is forwarded to those outside of town by the first opportunity, from 1818 to 1846. That was the day of the stage coaches and papers could go when the stages went. They arrived in the evenings, remained over night and went next day. Papers were many days stale until they reached the readers. Now the COMPILER is largely read on day of publication.

The place of publication was stated to be opposite the Post Office, and the permanent place of publication for many years is on South Baltimore Street in the rear of Craig's Hotel. This hotel stood where the Duncan house now stands in which the millinery store of Miss Agnes Barr is located. Down the alley is a small brick building near the Seftou & Flemming livery. In that building at one time was located the entire plant of the COMPILER, one room answering for composition, press and sanctum.

The paper at first was four pages of five columns and so remained for seventeen years or until Sept. 22, 1835, when the old material was dispensed with, new type and material purchased and the COMPILER became a four paged paper of six wider columns and it is announced that the paper will sustain the principles of Democracy and the candidates of the party. It is further announced that it will be printed and published by the proprietor by Jacob Lefever agent. The new COMPILER of 1835 carried underneath the title the rallying call of Andrew Jackson, "Truth is mighty and will prevail."

April 2, 1839 Jacob Lefever, who had been for twenty years the active personal force in the editing and publishing the paper was register of wills of the county and announced that "having concluded to devote his time and attention exclusively to his official duties, he has withdrawn from all agency in the publication of the COMPILER and returns his sincere thanks to his friends and patrons. The publication of the paper will hereafter be conducted by Isaac Lefever, who is recommended to the patrons of the establishment as fully competent. The paper will continue to be conducted on the good old Democratic principles and may be relied upon as a faithful sentinel on the watch tower of our liberties."

Isaac Lefever is the son of Jacob Lefever. The father is remembered as a medium sized man of slender build, earnest and whole-souled in his work. The son was very tall and slender, and was in control about four years.

John Stahle, of York county, who had two sons learning the printing business visited Gettysburg and purchased the COMPILER plant. Feb. 13, 1843 he sent one of his sons, Edman W. Stahle to run the paper. There is a new voice in the paper. In the first issue under his management, while Isaac Lefever announces his intention to remove from the county, the new editor states that many extra copies are sent out and that "as many as are in favor of patronizing the COMPILER will please signify the same by retaining the present number—and those of the contrary opinion will be good enough to return it to the office on the first opportunity."

Under the new management the Hymeneal Register is headed with the poetical thought

"The silken tie Which binds two willing hearts," and the Obituary Records with the statement

"In the midst of Life we are in Death."

Aug. 18, 1845, E. W. Stahle announced that he had disposed of all his interest in the printing establishment and patronage of the COMPILER to John Stahle by whom it will hereafter be published. The principles of the paper will of course remain unchanged and we bespeak for the new regime a cordial reception at the hands of the generous patrons of the COMPILER.

John Stahle sent a second son to take charge of the COMPILER. On Aug. 19, 1845, Henry J. Stahle landed in Gettysburg for the purpose. He announced in issue of Aug. 25, 1845.

"I have taken upon myself the charge of publishing the COMPILER. In doing so I shall always have in view the promotion of THE GOOD OLD CAUSE, and I here pledge to devote myself, to the utmost of my humble ability, untiringly to the diffusion of Democratic principles and the support of Democratic men. Many years have passed since the COMPILER was established and during which period it has earned a gratifying reputation. Now if the exertions of one deeply devoted to that party whose principles are acknowledged and maintained with pride shall be the means of always presenting an acceptable and serviceable sheet much of my purpose will be accomplished."

Oct. 12, 1846. The office of the COMPILER is on South Baltimore street, out of the alley, adjoining Forney's Hotel, and a few doors from the Public Square, and under the title the Jacksonian motto appears: "A Family Newspaper, Devoted to Politics, Literature, Agriculture, the Markets, Domestic and Foreign news, &c."

Under the able management of Henry J. Stahle the paper grew in size and importance. From six columns it grew to seven in May 1857, and now the word Republican was dropped as confusing and the paper became THE COMPILER, a Democratic and Family Journal. May 21, 1866, it is the GETTYSBURG COMPILER of seven columns. Aug. 23, 1867 it is eight columns with Pennsylvania coat of arms in center of title. July 24, 1868, it becomes the nine column paper it has ever since remained, until now it becomes the six column eight, ten, twelve and sixteen page paper that will be issued as occasion demands to properly serve our patrons. Bigger and better than ever before.

The paper has been issued upon every day in the week except Sunday and Saturday. When it started it appeared on Wednesday morning. July 14, 1829 this was changed to Tuesday morning. Isaac Lefever changes this May 8, 1841, to Monday afternoon and the first week day sees it issued until August 23, 1867, when publication day was Friday. From that time to 1884 there are ten changes in day of publication, Friday, Thursday, Wednesday Tuesday being swapped about from time to time until Tuesday becomes a fixed date and remains from 1884 to 1902, when it changed hands and Wednesday morning became publication day.

The price of paper remained $2 from 1818 to Feb. 18, 1850 when it is made to advance subscribers $1.75. War time comes, paper from wood is not dreamt of. Cotton is scarce and high and the price goes Aug. 8, 1864 to $2.50, the highest price. If not paid in advance, in advance $2.00 and the price so stands until March 26, 1887, when it comes down to $2.00 but $1.50 if paid in advance.

Henry J. Stahle dies May 12, 1892, after personifying the COMPILER for almost half a century. Thomas J. Stahle becomes the editor and proprietor after his father's death and so remains until April 1, 1894, when a partnership of T. J. and C. E. Stahle was formed and operated the paper until May 1899, when C. E. Stahle bought out the paper and became the sole proprietor.

On the eighty-fifth birthday of the COMPILER, Sept. 16, 1902, and after having been in the hands of the Stahle family for nearly sixty years the paper changed ownership. Such is the exceptional record of the paper that appears brand new from top to bottom this week. From the beginning it has been the COMPILER and missed only one issue—Monday after the battle when its editor was a prisoner of war.

IN THE FOUNTAINDALE RIGHT

WHERE THE FIRST BLOOD OF THE CIVIL WAR WAS SHED ON FREE SOIL.

An Interesting Account by One who Participated in the Fight Made by Adams County Men.

A sample of the curious mistakes made in this world is well illustrated in the following absolutely true story. An Adams county man, John R. Bittinger, was elected a member of the Legislature of Pennsylvania and introduced a bill and secured its passage for a $10,000 monument to be erected outside his county, in Hanover, to commemorate the first fight on free soil. It was a short fight of a half hour and one with perhaps serious consequences to the great struggle a few days later at Gettysburg, but the Battle of Hanover as now styled was preceded two days by a fight on Adams county soil.

This fact is not given in disparagement of the Hanover fight, but for accuracy of history. The first blood shed on free soil was on June 28, 1863, in the neighborhood of Fountaindale, Adams county, and in the fight one Confederate was killed. It was a small affair but called for heroism and will have to be marked some day as the spot on which blood was first shed on free soil.

Captain A. M. Walker, of this place was one of the participants in the engagement and from him has been obtained the following details of a fight whose forty-first anniversary will have passed before another issue of this paper comes out.

On Saturday evening or night of June 27, 1863, a special detail of one officer and twenty enlisted men was ordered from Co. C, of Cole's Independent Maryland Cavalry. This body was then at Frederick city, Maryland, and this detail was ordered as a scouting party to watch and intercept any movement of Lee's army along the South Mountain.

This work of making the detail was placed in the hands of Sergeant A. M. Walker and the detail was placed in command of Lieutenant W. A. Horner, a son of Captain John Horner, who is living in southern Kansas at the present time, and who has two sisters living in this place, Mrs. Theodore McAllister and Mrs. Harvey Cobean.

At an early hour Sunday morning, June 28, Lieutenant W. A. Horner with his detail started toward the mountains, meeting none of the enemy until they arrived at or near Fountaindale. Then the advance guard men reported a force of the enemy in their front.

A Confederate force of about fifty were on a forage and had captured about twenty horses from Adams county farmers and were traveling back toward the mountains. They saw the advance guard of the two men of the detail and gave chase, as they afterwards said in a spirit of sport, under the impression that they were cavalrymen at home and on parole.

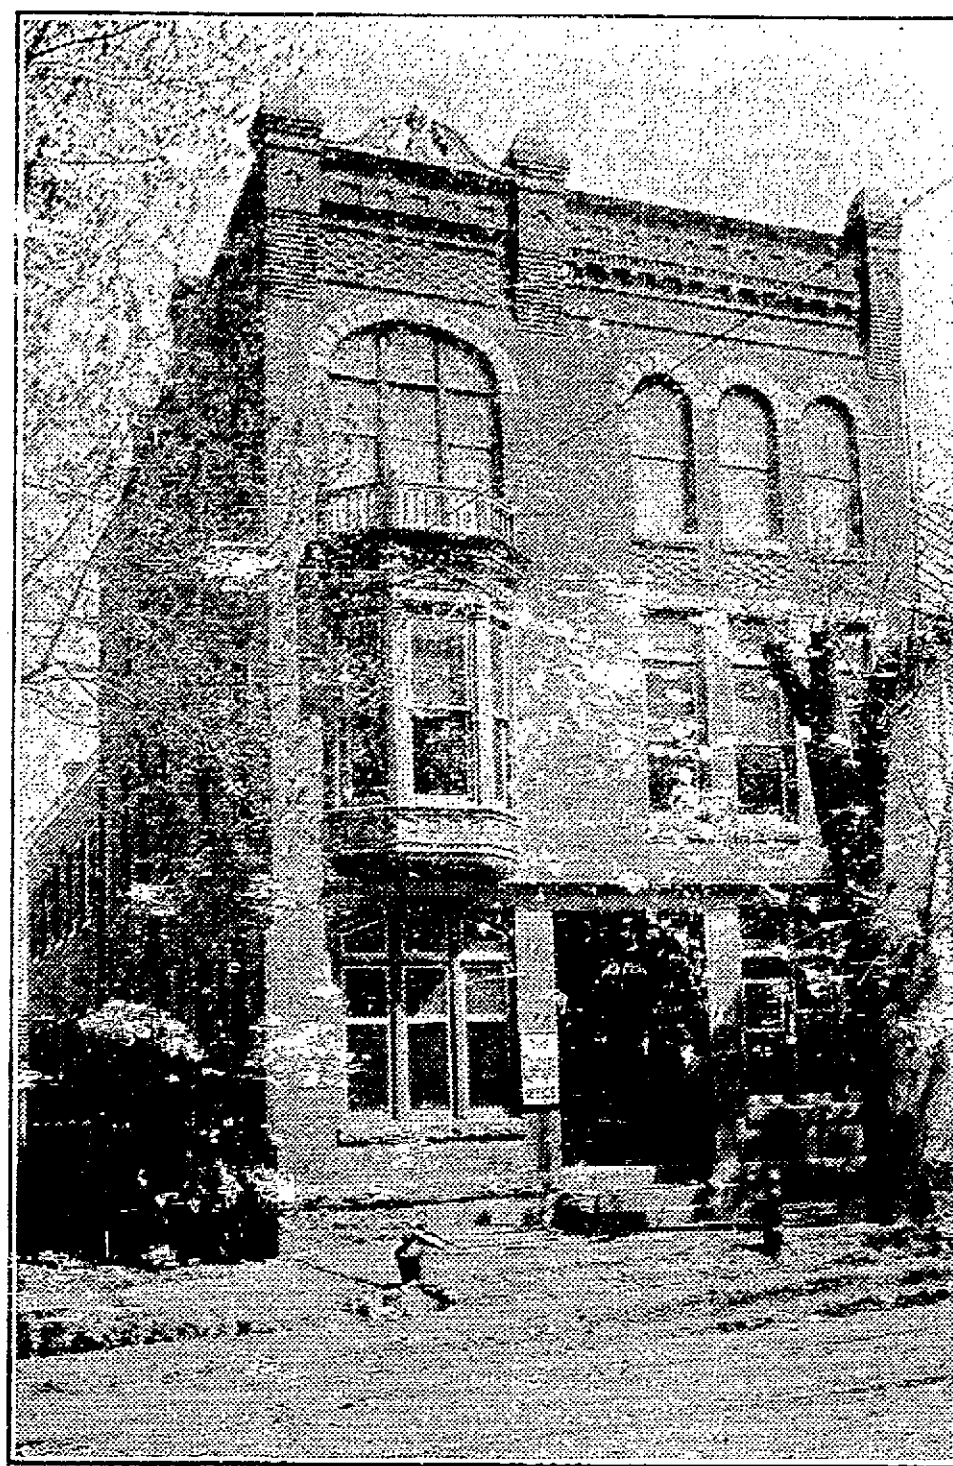

When these two men reported to Lieutenant Horner the situation he realized that his detail was outnumbered two to one and he hastily formed his men to the side and rear of a brick school house or church commanding the road.

The enemy advanced rapidly and when they came within range the order was given by Lieutenant Horner to fire, charge and yell as loudly as could be done.

The order was carried out to the letter. The squad of foraging Confederates were completely taken by surprise. With the volley and yelling and dust kicked up they imagined the force much larger. Those who could turned and put spur to their horses. The result of the attack was the killing of one Confederate, the wounding of several others, the capture of a Lieutenant with fifteen or sixteen men and the recapture of about twenty horses. Some of the squad from Co. C, of Cole's cavalry chased the retreating enemy almost to Fairfield.

Lieutenant Horner and squad took the prisoners and horses to Emmitsburg and turned them over to the Provost guard of advance of the Army of the Potomac, in command of General Buford. Some of the squad got on a special detail, came to Gettysburg with Gen. Buford and rendered good service during the battle, as scouts, couriers and guides, as the country was well known to them.

In making the detail Sergeant A. M. Walker had selected men according to order, acquainted with the country. Among those he remembers in squad were Samuel Bostwick of Adams county. After the war he had been a

THE HOME OF THE COMPILER

PICTURE OF ITS HOME FOR THIRTY YEARS.

Penelope is Name of Buried Cannon on Corner of Alley With a Warm Democratic History.

For many years the COMPILER plant remained in the alley back of Craig's hotel. When Henry J. Stahle took charge he became possessed of a wholesome dissatisfaction. There must be development, movement, growth, no stand still for him, in a year he had an office on Baltimore Street, convenient to the printing establishment but that was not sufficient.

In three years, on April 8, 1848 he purchased from the Bell heirs the house on Baltimore street occupied for many years by Wm. Bell as the Post Office. It was described as on east side of South Baltimore Street one square and a half from the Court House, latter building being then in the Diamond.

The Bell residence is the home of C. E. Stahle next door to the COMPILER. A porch ran the full length of the house in those days. From the north side of porch house was entered, from south end the COMPILER office, press, composition and editorial rooms, being rooms on first floor adjoining the O'Neal property. On the curb of the pavement opposite the office door was an old wooden pump and not far from the pump was Penelope the buried cannon, but that is another story.

In the fall of 1862 Henry J. Stahle succeeded in bargaining with Bringham heirs, owners of the house next door on the alley, the old brown wooden structure and on April 11, 1863 he obtained title to the same and immediately began to remove the printing office into it, which was the familiar home of the COMPILER for thirty years.

The rooms in the dwelling from which the plant was removed were altered and converted into a parlor and these alterations were near completion but the rooms had not yet been furnished when the Battle of Gettysburg took place. It was into the yet unfurnished new parlor still in hands of carpenters that General W. W. Dudley was carried on the first day. It was there he was tenderly cared for so that the incident remains green in his memory and his trips here are marked by visits to that spot and to those who cared for him. It was there the first amputation of his leg was made, and because he had been there, when later the Editor of the paper was a prisoner of war in Fort McHenry on false charges of being a sympathizer with the southern cause, it was Col. Badley who satisfied the authorities of Henry J. Stahle's patriotism, with the story of what he had done for him and procured his release.

In 1890 Henry J. Stahlke fully appreciating the cramped quarters began the erection of the two story brick building which is now given up entirely to composing and press rooms.

In Sept. 1894, Thos. J. Stahlke and C. E. Stahlke tore down the old brown wooden front building which had served its day and uses, and erected the present office building on Baltimore Street.

Such is the history of the old Compiler building and new Compiler building. Illustrated on this page, in which is printed the oldest paper continuously printed under one name in Adams County. The Centinel was a few years older but when it was more than fifty years old it was absorbed by a younger journal the Star and the old name was put to the rear.

In both pictures above on corner of alley the old buried cannon stands out prominently. Today she stands on the same curb. That is Penelope and she has an interesting story in connection with the Journal that has faithfully represented Democracy during its entire existence. Whenever Democracy won out at the polls as it usually did in those early days, there were great parades and demonstrations and Penelope was on hand to fire a salute in commemoration of the victory. The opposition in time bought a bigger cannon which was called Old Sam and great was the rivalry over the two guns. Part of the fun was to steal the other fellows gun and make trouble for it. Penelope was thrown into a well by the opposition and same dose was given Old Sam.

The Democrats finally decided they must have a better and bigger gun. So Penelope was hauled down to the end of East Middle Street and the boys put in a great charge of powder and on top of it was rammed grass and roots until Penelope was chuck full to the muzzle. Then no one wanted to fire it for fear of what was to happen. A long fuse was rigged up and lighted and the boys scampered. Such a roar as soon followed had never been heard before in Gettysburg. It is said a lighted candle in the house of Andy Polly on York St. was put out by the concussion. At any rate the purpose had been accomplished, Penelope was ruined.

This was right before the war. Henry J. Stahlke procures Penelope and has a hole drilled through her in which is inserted an iron bar and she is buried first four or five feet from the pump in front of the Compiler office. When the present lot was bought on which Compiler building stands Penelope was removed to her present position and buried with the cross bar in her, so that she could not be pulled up and carried away.

The sequel was the Democrats had to have a new gun. So Henry J. Stahlke visits the arsenal at Philadelphia and succeeds in securing a new brass cannon. When it arrives in town a carriage is made for it. Then comes a great celebration. The new cannon is dragged to Seminary hill, it is charged and it had the modern rigging of that day. could be fired by the pulling of a cord. At the end of the rope are two young ladies of the town. Miss Annie Danner and Miss Annie Runkle. When the cannon has been fired it is christened Penelope Ann. This brass cannon remains today stored in the barn of C. E. Stahlke.

A Day at Honolulu and a Sail Among the Islands of the Philippines Looking Like Parks

Several years ago in the month of March a sturdy band of Uncle Sam's mud crushers quartered at the Presidio in California, drilling through the day and getting in shape for service on the islands, and at night dreaming of the many scalps they were going to take—which they did not—finally received orders to move.

On March 15th, loaded down with fighting outfit they marched through San Francisco to the wharf and went aboard one of Old Uncle's pleasure yachts, and that evening started on the cruise. There were many young fellows who were just dying to meet Aguinaldo's forces—and there were many more who were not—especially those who had tasted of the tropical sun and these were only going because they had to, for the war was over and they knew about what they were up against. The scalp hunters were very much disappointed on arriving in Manila bay to learn that General Funston had bagged the game without their assistance.

There were about 1100 in the party and although the "state rooms" were down in the hold, and were somewhat crowded, everyone seemed in good spirits as the anchor was weighed. The prospects of seeing the Golden Gates, which we had heard so much of, was enough to make anyone stay on deck and everyone seemed to be of the same opinion as standing room along the rail was at a premium. We passed through this gateway, formed by high hills and rocks on either side, as the sun was setting. With the waves rolling over the rocks and the sun casting its rays on the shore it made one feel sorry he had to leave God's country for the land of the Yellow Race. But the scene presented as we passed through the gates was well worth the trouble of staying on deck and half the inconvenience of the trip across, for it was certainly a beautiful sight.

Once out in the open sea the boat began rolling as the waves became larger bringing on a slight attack of the disease which almost every landsman gets—sea sickness—and it continued to get worse until many were compelled to take to their bunks, and one had this enjoyable experience for four days. But all get over it in time and then the pleasures of an ocean voyage can be enjoyed, such as watching the flying fish jumping out of the water and soaring over the waves until their wings become dry when they fall back into the water. Also the porpoise jumping and diving under the boat, or a sea gull or albatross following the vessel and diving down after the offal that is thrown overboard, and sometimes one is treated to the sight of another vessel.

All this can be seen during the day and at night one can amuse himself looking at the stars until dizzy and then retire for the night, to get up next morning and repeat the performance.

Such are some of the pleasures of a transport voyage to the Philippines. But there is always someone in a crowd to make fun, and this crowd was no exception. Enough string instruments were found to fit out an orchestra and there were nightly concerts which broke the monotony nicely. The weather was fine the trip being made by the southern route and after a ten days' sail we reached Honolulu, having had but one rough day. On arriving at this port the vessel stopped for two days to coal and we were given shore leave—on the pier—and passes were issued giving the men an opportunity to see the city. This privilege was much appreciated as it gave an opportunity to stretch themselves.

Honolulu, chief city of Hawaii, is called the Garden Spot of the World, I believe, and it well deserves the name for the climate being warm and almost always at the same temperature, all kinds of tropical plants and fruits abound, coconuts and bananas answering for shade as well as food. The city is built on modern style, the streets being wide and kept clean. In the business section the buildings are fine and in the outer portion of the city there are parks and almost every house has a lawn or terrace with palm and flowers planted over it. Although there are many nationalities represented there the place has more the appearance of an American city and the English language seems to be the one most used, making it very easy for one to get along. Our short stay here was much enjoyed and all seemed sorry when orders came to go abroad. In the evening we left the port leaving the Meade lying there with some cavalry abroad waiting for some of the crew to return to work, they having gone on strike, I believe, two days before. Their land gave us a parting salute with the tune of Home Sweet Home and other airs making the crowd think of what they had left behind.

Once out of sight of land we settled down to another siege of rolling and pitching and about the 30th of April came in sight of the Philippines and dropped anchor in Manila Bay. This was a pleasing sight for all were tired of being jammed around and the prospects of soon landing was welcomed, but unfortunately the outfit was to go further south and all we could do to Manila was to look at her about a mile away. Here the vessel lay for two days again and filled her bunkers with coal, the work being done by Chinese. The coal was brought out from the city on barges and passed up the side in small baskets, being very slow work.

While this was going on we amused ourselves by taking in what Dewey had done to the Spanish fleet, going in swimming and throwing harkback at the "Chinks" while they were at work, making some of them sore while others gathered up the pieces and ate them, seeming to enjoy the American bread. The paymaster also put in an appearance at this time and gave us a long felt want and we lived like kings for the rest of the trip, the boat resembling somewhat a county fair, or Monte Carlo.

From Manila we proceeded to Iloilo where we spent the night, then to Cagayan at which place some of the troops disembarked, then to Zamboanga, the chief city of the island of Mindanao, then to Oroquito, same island, where we were detached, twenty-five men going on to Dapitan where we went ashore having ended a voyage of about forty-five days. The cruise through the islands was the most pleasing part, as we were never out of sight of land and at many places seemed to be so close to shore that one might toss a stone there. Timber lined the shores of many of the islands and where this was not so, palms and flowers were numerous, making one think he was sailing through a park, and forget that he had just left the bosom of the Pacific.

THE RIVAL OF AN ANCIENT CUSTOM

The Feast of Roses Annually Celebrated by Lancaster of Church.

The thirteenth annual Feast of Roses was celebrated at Zion's Lutheran Church, Manheim Lancaster Co., last week with an attendance of several thousands to witness the beautiful ceremony.

When Baron Henry William Stiegel deeded the ground to the church on December 4, 1772, the consideration named was one red rose, to be paid in June, whenever demanded. It was twice demanded by the baron, and it was only in 1891 that the payment of the rose was revived by Dr. J. H. Greiling. Since then the debt has been annually paid, and the festival now attracts people from all sections of Eastern Pennsylvania. Rev. Clifton G. White of Chambersburg, a native of Manheim preached the memorial sermon this year.

The exercises incident to the Feast of Roses began at 1.30 o'clock. After singing and appropriate recitations B. C. Allee, a member of the Lancaster Bar, on behalf of the congregation, presented the rose to a lineal descendant of the Baron. It was received by General John F. Roller, of Harrisonburg, Va. The exercises closed with a contribution of roses, each person attending being expected to bring one rose. The roses contributed are sent annually to local hospitals.

MY FELLOW DEMOCRATS:
Since very many of my friends have asked me to be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for President Judge of this District, it is due to you and to them that I make known my position in the matter.

NEWS OF THE JAPAN—RUSSIAN WAR

JAPAN HAS BEEN MASTER OF THE SITUATION UP TO PRESENT TIME.

A Brief Review of Events Since the Breaking out of the War—A Big Battle is Looked For Soon.

FEBRUARY.

The first month of the struggle between Russia and Japan was definitely marked by two movements on Japan's part. Immediately upon the breaking off of diplomatic relations she began to land her men on Korean soil, and in order to protect the movements of her transports, maintained a constant activity by sea at Port Arthur, with a view of preventing the Russian fleet from interfering with the transportation of Japanese troops. Closely allied to this was the destruction off Chemulpo of the Russian battleships Varieg and Korietz. During the month the Russian Mediterranean squadron was ordered to re-enforce her fleets in the East, but only reached Jibuti, in the Red sea, when it was ordered to return to Cronstadt.

MARCH.

During March Japan's land operations in Korea and her activity at sea off Port Arthur steadily continued, her fleet also bombarding Vladivostok. With her increased forces in Korea she pressed northward as far as Ping-Yang, her scouts penetrating further as far as Anju, a number of skirmishes taking place between them and Russia's advance cavalry. The substitution of Admiral Makaroff over Admiral Stark at Port Arthur and the arrival of General Kuropatkin at the seat of war infused new life into Russia's movements.

APRIL.

April, however, proved a disastrous month for Russia. On the 13th her battleship Petropavlovsk was sunk near the harbor entrance by striking a Japanese mine. At the same time a Russian torpedo-boat was sunk by the Japs, the total losses of the two amounting to about 650. The most serious feature of this was the loss of Admiral Makaroff, Russia's commander-in-chief at Port Arthur, under whom the fleet at that harbor had become an aggressive force. Two Japanese columns, numbering 100,000 men, got across the Yalu river on the 27th. On the 29th the Russian Vladivostok squadron sank a Japanese transport with 200 men and returned to Vladivostok. On the 27th, 28th, 29th and 30th, there was general fighting along the Yalu, with the Japanese victorious.

MAY.

With the first week in May, active land operations across the Yalu began. The Japanese on May 1 drove the Russians from Kulien Cheng. The Russians were forced to abandon Antung, burning the town before they left. The Japanese lost 700 and the Russians 900 in the fighting. On May 4 the attempt to "bottle" the Russian fleet at Port Arthur was successful. On May 6 the Russians were compelled to abandon Fung-Wang-Chang, after fierce fighting. Since then the Japanese have been driving the Russians back upon Liao Yang, and are preparing to attack General Kuropatkin's forces there. On May 15 the Japanese battleship Hatsuse was destroyed by a Russian mine and the Yoshino was rammed and sunk by the Kasuga. On May 26 the Japanese army on Liao Tung peninsula drove the Russians from Nan Shan Hill. Casualties, 5000. The Japanese have since been closing on Port Arthur, but while fighting has been constantly in progress there have been no decisive engagements.

JUNE.

On June 5, Oku's army was reported driven back from Port Arthur, both sides losing heavily, and on the 8th, Kuroki took Sin Yan and began a general advance, probably on Hai Cheng. While reports are meager for this month, yet the indications are that Russian forces are cut in two. A big battle in the near future is inevitable and unconfirmed reports of one are of daily occurrence. Japanese forces are said to be within eight miles of Port Arthur. Military experts agree that Russia has made a mistake in trying to hold Port Arthur and thus dividing her forces. So far Japan seems to have outgeneraled her enemy, to have been victorious in her movements and to be masters of the situation.

Coffee Tippler.

Brazilians are great coffee drinkers. Numerous cups are drunk each day by the average man and woman. The beverage is made very strong and very sweet. It produces an exhilaration of a more intense and lasting kind than beer. Those addicted to this habit become very restless and scarcely able to sit still or stand still even for a moment.

He Found Out.

"How was Goggles hurt?"
"He was curious to find out whether his new horse was a kicker."—Exchange.

Some Persian beauties decorate their faces by painting figures of animals and insects upon them.

THREE MAGNIFICENT TROPHIES

To be Given for Highest Rating for the Inspection at Gettysburg Camp.

Much interest has been aroused among the State National Guard by the announcement that three magnificent trophies will be presented by the "Philadelphia Inquirer" to the company, troop and battery earning the highest rating for the inspection in camp at Gettysburg in their respective branches of the service—infantry, cavalry and artillery.

The Infantry Trophy is a forceful creation, in rich bronze, of a Norman archer, the infantryman of the army of that day. The pose of the figure is very striking, the body of the soldier being inclined as the tense muscles draw the barb of the arrow to the chin, and the strong neck is bent, to enable the keen eye of the archer to sight his missile. From the base to the top of the bow the height of the figure is just 40 inches. Pierre Tourgueneff, one of the most noted artists of the present school, is the author, and the careful detail which the sculptor has worked into this creation demonstrates that he was thoroughly imbued with the spirit of his work.

The same artist has the credit of modeling the trophy for the cavalry, "A Trooper of the Empire." In this, as in the "Norman Archer," M. Tourgueneff has again marked his artistic perception of pose. The "Trooper of the Empire" is one of that magnificent body of cavalry, the Hussars, whom Murat, the "Beau Sabre" of the First Empire, so gloriously led. Man and horse are fine conceptions in repose, and that very repose adds forcefully to the ensemble. The figure is on a base seventeen by five inches and measures twenty inches to the top of the Hussar's aigrette.

A search for something apropos and emblematic for the artillery arm of the State service brought this statuette of the great captain himself, who was first and foremost an artilleryman. M. Pinedo, who has made a specialty of studies of the first Emperor of the French, and whose noted equestrian statue of Napoleon adorns the French capital, is the author of this work. The Great Captain is shown in his characteristic pose, in one of those moments of meditation from which sprang forth projects which changed the map of Europe. This figure is twenty inches high, mounted upon an octagonal, rich green marble base, eight by eight inches, and bearing the imperial "N" upon its front.

These trophies are to be given to the company, troop and battery to which the inspectors give the highest rating for appearance, etc., during the encampment. There are no restrictions, the trophies being for the best units of the guard, and it will win them. And it must be remembered that the decision as to the best company of infantry, troop of cavalry and battery of artillery will be made by the Inspector's Department of the National Guard of Pennsylvania, officers of tried probity and known impartiality.

FIRST DROWNING AT CAPE MAY

Of This Season was That of a Hanover Newspaper Man.

Eugene A. Strewig, of Hanover Pa., who has been employed as editor of "Cape May Wave," was drowned on Sunday of last week while bathing. He got beyond his depths and is supposed to have been taken with cramps or heart failure and sank without a struggle. Strewig was engaged to a young lady of York and the wedding was to take place in the fall. He was the hero at Lake Royer, near Pen-Mar in August 1901, when he saw a boat containing three people capsized. He turned his boat to the point where other boat had capsized and rescued three lives. Mrs. Louise Wecher, and John Berkheimer, of York, and John Reinhart of Smithsburg, Md., Miss Finefrock, of York, was the only one that was not rescued, she being drowned. Now the life saver loses his own life.

MISUNDERSTANDINGS.

Keep Them Out of the Home and Away From Friendships.

If love is to flourish between two people they must each be slow to take offense and not only willing, but glad, to pardon at the first and faintest sign of penitence; still more, to overlook entirely the sin which has been a blunder and an accident. Life and love are in great part the art of bearing with other people's shortcomings.

Every offender, whatever the offense, is in the eyes of the law entitled to a fair trial, and no one should be condemned unheard. The exercise of a medium of common sense and justice would nip most quarrels, whether between lovers or others, in the bud. Some one has wisely said that scarcely a novel was ever written which could have run to the end if the hero and heroine had been fully frank with one another. Most dissensions are founded upon misunderstandings.

Much may be forgiven to those who love much by those who return such affection. Nor is it sufficient to forgive without forgetting the offense. The slate should be wiped clean and the transgression be as though it had never been.—Philadelphia Ledger.

A NEW COMPILER.

THE COMPILER this week is new from beginning to end, new size, new forms, new dress, new type, everything new and as we believe a bigger and better paper than ever before.

When the COMPILER first came under present management the promise was made that everything would be done in our power to add to the prestige and value of the paper then more than four-score years old. The change now made we believe is but in line with promises then made and since.

It has been our constant aim to give our readers and advertisers a better COMPILER. A better paper must be the goal or there is a standing still, or going backwards. Something better keeps things moving forward.

Toward this end of a better paper we have given columns and columns of original matter from all parts of the world, written specially for the COMPILER. Historical papers of town and county have been given and special departments carried. We have given the Court news in full and in detail, so that the people may know of the administration of law in the county. News from every section of the county has been given, additions being made to our list of correspondents to more fully cover the county. We have given fresh original fiction from some of the best living writers.

All this has made the COMPILER a better read paper and more valuable to advertisers. The advertising of our first year was heavier than it had ever been and as our second year draws to a close, it has far exceeded the first year. Consequently we have been cramped for room. News has been given in briefest form, often it has been packed in solid columns more difficult to read than the leaded columns. The truth is everything has been boiled down to get in the forms, and when a subscriber would gently say to us when advertising was heavy in the sale season and at other times, that there was a short measure of reading, there was nothing for us to do but admit the truth and intimate that such a condition might not always exist.

We were simply doing the best we could but the COMPILER in its new form changes all this. Hereafter the COMPILER will be an eight, ten, twelve or larger paper, as circumstances, advertising and news require. There will be no crowding together to get everything in. It will be all that it has ever been and more besides. The effort will be to give no excuse of complaint of a short measure of reading matter.

The size is changed for two reasons. The size of this week's paper can be adjusted better to the needs of space for news and advertising. We do not believe in a supplement of less than the full size of the paper. Pages can be added at any time now, but to find enough for an insert of a nine column page was almost impossible. In the second place the nine column paper is out of date, it goes by the name of the old time blanket sheet. The best standard of to-day is a smaller paper, easier to hold and easier to read. We are giving the COMPILER smaller in size and larger in volume to make it a bigger, better, newsier paper in every way.

THE NEW PENNSYLVANIA SENATOR.

Philander C. Knox, Attorney General of United States, has resigned his position in the Roosevelt Cabinet to accept the appointment of United States Senator from Pennsylvania, in place of M. S. Quay. There is no disputing the fact that Mr. Knox is a lawyer of great ability and instead of the great Keystone Commonwealth being represented in the U. S. Senate by two politicians, as has been the case for a generation, it will now be represented by as brainy legal talent as there is in the state. The state gains thereby in the eyes of the country in the Upper House and will be more creditably represented.

But the significance of the appointment of Mr. Knox must not be lost sight of. An able lawyer, he was asked as the representative of the government to make a show of busting trusts. It was never intended to be more than a play to the gallery of popular clamor. When the lawyer went at the Northern Securities Company and knocked it out a howl went up from the trusts. He was a dangerous man. He must be pulled down. Wall street simply has called the bluff of the administration. It lays down, unmasked, surrenders and shows what a pitiful sham it is. And this is the administration seeking to perpetuate itself for another four years.

CONSTITUTION VIOLATED.

It is not surprising that the same Governor who violated the spirit and letter of the State Constitution in promoting and signing the press muzzler bill should again violate the Constitution of his State in the appointment of Philander C. Knox as United States Senator from Pennsylvania.

The Constitution of Pennsylvania commands that "in case of a vacancy in the office of United States Senator from this Commonwealth, in a recess between sessions, the Governor shall convene the two Houses, by proclamation, or notice not exceeding sixty days, to fill the same."

Governor Pennypacker deliberately violated the Constitution he was sworn to support in the appointment of Mr. Knox and it makes no difference how meritorious the individual may be. He violated the Constitution at the orders of the politicians Penrose and Durham, who took orders from the trusts and corporations. If any of the citizens of this state and nation cherish the idea that Constitutions can be ruthlessly broken at the orders of politicians the error will be discovered some day. This great Commonwealth must be governed by those who sacredly cherish and maintain the fundamental law of the State. Sowing seeds of violating Constitutions by politicians and their tools is simply preparing the way to reap a harvest of lawlessness in some other direction.

CONTEMPTIBLE ARROGANCE.

The treatment of Superintendent Pratt of the Carlisle Indian School, by the Roosevelt administration is contemptible and deserves condemnation. Out of the experience of a life time he said that it would have been far better if the Indian Bureau of the Interior Department at Washington had never been formed, that the proper treatment of all Indians would be to encourage, educate and develop them along the line which had been successful in schools like the Carlisle one, instead of isolating them on reservations and robbing them as the national policy so long pursued has made possible. Every thinking man knows the Indian has not been treated right by the government, that the process has been extermination and not education and development. The arrogant Roosevelt administration will not tolerate words of wisdom from experience. One of the greatest friends the Indian has ever had, who has labored unceasingly to educate and develop the Indian to make a useful citizen out of him, who made the Carlisle Indian school what it is to-day, whose work was recognized and valued by Democratic administrations, is flattered the latter part of May by being raised from rank of a Colonel to a Brigadier General and then is slapped in the face with a dismissal. It is all too contemptible for words.

THE CURSE OF GRAFT.

Graft is the curse of the present political world. It is the sin for which the penalty must be paid in the future. Parties and nations can no more sin than the individual and not reap as has been sown. Graft is insidiously trying to creep into every arm of government great and small. There have been persistent rumors of rake-offs by school directors in certain rural districts of this county in the matter of giving out schools and buying school supplies. The way to kill graft is to elect men who will neither ask or take a rake off. Another way is to expose it. Let every school director scotch the snake whenever and wherever it shows its head. Kill it, drive it out, and this for the sake of good citizenship, for our political salvation. No man can take a rake-off without injury to his own citizenship and that of every one else. It is simply sowing to the wind to reap the whirlwind.

THE NEW COLLEGE PRESIDENT.

S. G. Hefelbower, President of Gettysburg College has every characteristic of a hustler, and that is pre-eminent the quality needed in a president at this time. In saying this no reflection is intended in the slightest degree upon the intellectual qualifications of the new incumbent. As a student at the great Germany universities he is richly endowed with new and advanced ideas of what a college ought to be. But all that is a thing of the future. The college can not be what it ought to be without money and a hustler is needed for money. In our humble judgment the very life of the College is at stake. It is in competition with hundreds of institutions with more wealth and that means better equipment. Money is needed, not in small quantities. A half million or a million more ought to be the goal. Money to pay any liabilities outstanding, money for more buildings, for increasing needs of equipment, for endowment and a hundred other purposes. President Hefelbower has an immense task ahead of him. He has youth on his side, being but thirty-three years old. He is full of energy and push. Every friend of the institution should extend him the helping hand and bid him God speed toward the one goal he must devote every energy — money — to push the College forward and keep it from standing still or going backward.

EDITORIAL HOTCH-POTCH.

Now would be a good time for new subscribers to begin to take the COMPILER.

READ every page of this issue, advertisement and all. It is every bit new.

A word to the farmers, hustle your crops through so you may listen to the candidate.

If our readers know of any news send it in. Kill two birds with one stone. What is wanted is news and that is what our readers want.

POLITICS may be slow but then the convention is two months off. A July sun and a nearer approach of August 15 will make things hum and buzz.

THE song of the mower is heard in the land. The farmer puts all over as he listens to the song and sees the sight of the high thick set grass fields fall down before the mower.

TOWN people also smile when they hear the song of the mower for they realize that whatever helps the farmer helps them. We must all live and help each other to live.

New forms and new dress cost money. We return thanks to the subscribers who responded to our recent appeal. We are still in a position to appreciate more remembrances of the kind.

Now doth the wedding bells peal frequently and it maketh merry the heart of the clerk of the courts, yet he shakes his head as he thinks of the possible material for the Prothonotary across the hall in the matter of divorces.

WHY shut up a yard in town with a board fence. If the gentleman will excuse the reference, Geo. D. Thorn has a beautiful yard along his Middle Street property. If that fence was entirely removed every one could enjoy the cheering sight and it would add to the whole effect.

If our subscribers like the COMPILER in its new form and dress, write and tell us. We are making it what it is to please you. If will do us good and give cheer to know we have succeeded. If you have criticism, give it to us, it will do us good and we will try to profit thereby.

ENCOURAGE the Civic Club. No town on the face of the globe but can be improved. Our town needs a dose of improvement. Give the ladies a chance, they are just the citizens to make the town look better. Remember the festival Friday and Saturday evenings. Give the Civic Club the helping hand.

THEY say John R. Bittinger wants another term at Harrisburg. Perhaps for his single legislative act of giving Hanover a monument for the first fight on free soil of the Civil War, when the first light and bloodshed belongs to Fountaindale, Adams Co., see front page. Nice way to treat his native county. He ought to move to York County and ask for favors where he gave them.

The Friendship of Youth.
Two boys brought up together sometimes remain fast friends for life, but not so commonly as one might suppose. "I thought you had a little friend with you today, Tommy," said a lady to a child who was walking about alone and disconsolate. "I have a little friend, but I hate him!" was the reply. And the words contain a whole essay of comment upon the value of friendship founded solely upon propinquity.—London Spectator.

BOUGHT A POCKET BOOK AT A SALE WITH A MONEY IN IT.

School Boards Organize in Different Parts of County and Elect Teachers—Repairs About Abbeystown Church.

To think of going to a preacher's sale and buying for a song his pocket book to find that it contained silver and gold but such was the luck of Square Markley, of York Springs, he bought for a small sum the book of Rev. Frank Henneman, who has left York Springs for Kansas City, and when he went through the desk he found a purse containing $5.50 in silver and a $1.00 gold piece. The latter piece is rare and worth a nice premium.

The School Board, of York Springs, met last week and elected for the next year C. E. Beam to the grammar school at salary of $50 and Miss Sile Gallatin to primary school at salary of $40.

John W. Funt living near Biglerville lost 42 fine chickens in a single night. They were spring chickens too weighing from a half to three-fourths of a pound. The next night his steel trap showed who the thief and murderer was, a weasel and it left a foot and some of the hide in the trap.

A pushcart was stolen from Andrew Bower, of East Berlin, on last Sunday night. It was standing near their house full of wood. The wood was unloaded and the cart taken. A tramp who had slept in the barn put through some queer talking about being wakened in night by another party entering barn. The cart was traced a short distance but the tracts were lost and parties have not been able to discover anything further about the cart.

Rev. S. P. Mauger of Emanuel Reformed Church, Abbeystown, recently requested the members to meet, repair litching posts and fences of the old graveyard. Thirty-five members were present at time indicated. Fence was straightened and whitewashed, trees trimmed and litching posts put up. It was a general cleaning up which greatly improved appearances. Now relatives and friends are asked to repair and straighten tomb stones that are out of place.

The New Oxford School Board at their June meeting organized by electing Z. H. Cashman as Pres., Jas. W. Barnitz as Sec. and E. E. Freed Treas. Teachers of two of the three schools were elected. While three Hanover boys recklessly drove a horse totally blind through New Oxford last week, the animal fell, cutting and bruising its forelegs. One of the boys was thrown out of wagon receiving bruises about head. Shafts of wagon were broken.

Has no Equal.

"I am a user of Baxter's Mandrake Bitters and there is no medicine its equal for chronic constipation, which is my trouble. I also had various veins which caused a running sore on my leg, and I could get no help until I began using Baxter's Mandrake Bitters. I soon noticed a change for the better, and after using the Bitters for six months the sore healed and has given me no trouble since."

A BEVLE found seemingly mad bit two dogs of Clayton Rider, near Barlow recently. Mr. Rider killed the three dogs at once.

THUNDERBOLTS OF MODERN SURGERY.—Wonderful things are done for the human body by surgery. Organs are taken out and scraped and polished and put back, or they may be removed entirely; bones are spliced; pipes take the place of diseased sections of veins; antiseptic dressings are applied to wounds, bruises, burns and like injuries before inflammation sets in, which causes them to heal without maturation and in one-third the time required by the old treatment. Chamberlain's Pain Balm acts on this same principle. It is an antiseptic and when applied to such injuries, causes them to heal very quickly. It also allays the pain and soreness. Keep a bottle of Pain Balm in your home and it will save you time and money, not to mention the inconvenience and suffering which such injuries entail. For sale by J. H. Huber, druggist.

THE Hanover shoe base ball team recently defeated the New Oxford Athletic Association team on the Hanover grounds by a score of 6 to 5.

DRIVEN TO DESPERATION.—Living at an out of the way place, remote from civilization, a family is often driven to despair on in case of sudden illness. In Burns, C. S. Wounds, Ulcers, etc. Lay in a supply of Bucklen's Arnica Salve. It's the best on earth. 25c at all drug stores.

WORST OF ALL EXPERIENCES.—Can anything be worse than to feel that every minute will be your last? Such was the experience of Mrs. S. H. Newcom, Decatur, Ala. "For three years," she writes, "I endured insufferable pain from indigestion, stomach and bowel trouble. Death seemed inevitable when doctors and all remedies failed. At length I was induced to try Electric Bitters and the result was miraculous. I improved at once and now I'm completely recovered." For Liver, Kidney, Stomach and Bowel troubles Electric Bitters is the only medicine. Only 50c. It's guaranteed by all druggists.

A FRIGHTFUL car ran off track at Hendricks Station on last Wednesday night. By morning the wrecking crew had the car on track and all damage repaired.

"Do It To-Day." The time-corn junction, "Never put off 'til to-morrow what you can do to-day," is now generally presented in this form: "Do It To-Day." That is the terse advice we want to give you about that hacking cough or demoralizing cold with which you have been struggling for several days, perhaps weeks. Take some reliable remedy for To-Day—and let that remedy be Dr. Boschee's German Syrup, which has been in use for over thirty-five years. A few doses of it will undoubtedly relieve your cough or cold, and its continued use for a few days will cure you completely. No matter how deep-seated your cough, even if dread consumption has attacked your lungs, German Syrup will surely effect a cure—as it has done before in thousands of apparently hopeless cases of lung trouble. New Trial bottles, 25c; regular size, 75c. Sold at Huber's Drug Store.

Perchance he's proud of that. But he don't appeal to the public like The man behind the bat.

'TISN'T safe to be a day without Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil in the house. Never can tell what moment an accident is going to happen.

STARTLING EVIDENCE.—Fresh testimony in great quantity is accumulating in declaring Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption Coughs and Colds to be unequalled. A recent expression from J. T. CHAMBERLAIN'S STOMACH AND LIVER TABLETS BETTER THAN A DOCTOR'S PRESCRIPTION.—Mr. J. W. Turner, of Truist, Va., says that Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets have done him more good than anything he could get from the doctor. If any physician in this country was able to compound a medicine that would produce such gratifying results in cases of stomach troubles, biliousness or constipation, his whole time would be used in preparing this one medicine. For sale by J. H. Huber.

SUED BY HIS DOCTOR.—A doctor here has sued me for $12.50, which I claimed was excessive for a case of cholera morbus," says R. White, of Coahella, Cal. "At the trial he praised his medical skill and medicine. I asked him if it was not Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy he used as I had good reason to believe it was, and he would not say under oath that it was not." No doctor could use a better remedy than this in a case of cholera morbus, it never fails. Sold by J. H. Huber.

Censure For an Officer Who Saved Money For the War Office.

A zealous young officer in South Africa who had a knowledge and love of farming made his men collect oats which fell lavishly by the wayside as column after column carrying out hay passed up country. He plowed some land, sowed his oats and eventually reaped his harvest. This harvest, which was a heavy one, saved the country at least £2,000. But when his accounts were sent home the officials at the war office could not understand how they had come by something for nothing. Such a thing had never happened before. They impugned his motives and accounts, and the least of the charges brought against him in a long correspondence was that he had looted the oats. Months passed, and still the young officer had not been able to convince the war office that he was honest. Then a well known general intervened and testified that he himself had watched the experiment in farming by which the country had been saved a considerable sum of money. At last the war office ended the correspondence. Nothing that had been insinuated was pressed further. The officer is left with the correspondence on his hands, and any one reading it could not hesitate to pronounce it as being in effect a severe censure.—Manchester Guardian.

Hard to Kill.

Cold, according to the old tradition, have five lives, but they are not the only creatures that enjoy such a plurality. Infusoria have been dried and restored to life by postponing after remaining inert dust for twenty-seven years, and the drying resuscitation has been successfully tried eleven times on one lot of rotifers. Frogs and many fishes suffer no injury from freezing solid, while in a few cases even warm blooded animals have been restored to life after apparent death from freezing.

The practice of tarring and feathering, which we regard as essentially American, belongs to Great Britain. To us the honor of inventing or adopting that very disagreeable mode of punishment belongs. Among the laws for the preservation of order when King Richard sailed on his crusade was one that any soldier convicted of theft should have his head shaved, be stripped of his clothes, have melted pitch poured all over him, after this be covered with feathers and so set ashore at the first land that was touched.—London Queen.

A GREAT HAIL STORM ON SUNDAY

THE SALEM U. B. CHURCH BURNT COMPLETELY OUT.

The Storm Covered an Irregular Territory and Did Great Damage to Grain Fields

The greatest storm of the season and one that surpassed anything of the kind for years passed over this section on Sunday afternoon. It was a north-eastern storm when it struck Gettysburg, but it was apparently two storms that had met about five miles from town, between Hunterstown and Heidlersburg. The center of the storm brought hail of tremendous size, looked like camphor moth balls. At Biglerville it was a heavy rain but no hail. There was no hail at Hammers' Store. It was a good rain at Two Taverns. All day there was a threatening storm to the north and in the afternoon toward the east. They seemed to join away off toward the north-east and then travel toward Gettysburg.

Though the storm did not reach this town until a few minutes after five o'clock, at 4.30 there was a great burst of lightning over the Salem U. B. Church. The church was locked, had not been opened yet for the 7.30 services. It seemed to be one of those strokes that run all through a roof. A man passing church at the time and those living in adjoining house saw a little flame at the gable and with a bucket of water put it out, but the whole roof was in a steam and in a few minutes the fire broke out all over the roof.

The small crowd at hand saw they were helpless to fight the fire and proceeded to get out of church all the valuables. One organ was moved. The second organ was gotten as far as the door, where there was trouble and there was a moment's wait to get something to assist in moving. Upon returning to work a few minutes later the heat drove them away. The new handsome pulpit stand was saved and a few pews. Otherwise the church was completely burned out.

The edifice was a brick one. It could be seen from the W. M. R. R. at Golden's station. It was built sixteen years ago. The membership is large, over 175 members, and people from Straban and Mountpleasant townships go there to worship.

Rev. C. L. Rice, the pastor, had gone to the home of a parishioner early in afternoon and after storm went over to the building. The brick walls of the church are heavy and they were standing plumb. The front gable was braced and was standing. The rear gable had a chimney through it and was the one wall of which there was any doubt. The church had been heated with a hot air furnace and everything inside was a complete ruin. The church had been freshly painted last week. The loss will aggregate $1,000, and is covered by insurance.

The heart of the hail storm struck the farm of Postmaster Wm. B. McIlhenny and 45 acres of fine growing wheat were beaten to the ground. Examination showed stocks broken so that it is thought that it will be a total loss. Hail the size of walnuts fell. Potato plants were found cut clear off. Window lights were broken in his house. He estimates his loss at between $600 and $700.

The hail seemed to be worse at spots, and while one grain field was but little damaged another one not far off was ruined. Such is the story from points all around the town.

The waters touched and went above at places all previous high water marks. Rock Creek ran around all bridges on roads leading to town. Runs, often dry channels, were streams a hundred or more feet wide. Along the Bendersville road by the Meadow Valley Stock Farm all culverts in road were carried away. The old bridge on Springs road was carried away. Corn fields that had been planted and replanted were again washed out. The hail was particularly severe across Meadow Valley Farm and Buttonwood Farm, both owned by J. L. Butt, dozens of window lights being broken.

Hail was so thick and heavy on the streets of the town that they were white. A few window panes were broken in town.

The first heavy lightning bolt, as the storm began, struck the cupola of the Western Maryland depot, shattering one of the pillars of cupola but doing no other visible damage. The depot was full of excursionists at the time but no one was shocked.

In the town were a goodly number of visitors. There was a crowd of over one hundred survivors of the 22d New York Regt. and a large excursion from Baltimore. Many were on the field and were drenched until they arrived in town.

THE ALUMNI PROFESSORSHIP

The Trustees Settle Hot Air Dispute Which was Ill Advised

An amicable settlement of the questions involved in the Alumni Professorship Fund of Penna. College was effected by the action of Trustees at their regular annual meeting June 14 1904 in adopting the report of the Committee appointed to consider the inquiry from the Alumni Association. This report after tracing the origin and history of the movement to establish the Professorship showed that the old resolutions of 1859 had been lost sight of and forgotten by all. The minutes of the Alumni Asso. furnish the proof that the Alumni were not expecting the fund to be completed by the addition of interest.

All the reports of the Asso. Committees on the endowment of the Professorship show that they understood that interest was not to be added to the fund. They never asked for an accounting of interest and on their official record after 1859 there is not a single reference to the matter of interest on the fund. Further the minutes show that there was no notice to the College Treasurer of the resolutions that were adopted in 1859 by the Alumni Asso. He was not a member of the Asso. and there is no evidence of any kind that shows or even tends to show that he had notice of the resolutions. All the evidence there is points the opposite direction. There is the testimony of some of the oldest and best informed of the Alumni that it was not within their knowledge that there was any such condition the interest was to be added and there is also the guarantee that is given by the character of Mr. Alexander D. Buehler the then Treas. of the College that he did not know of any such resolutions.

The report of the Committee stated that after a most thorough and exhaustive search of the records they fully warranted in concluding that there was no evidence of negligence or carelessness on the part of the Treas. of the College in not adding interest to the fund. The report then admitted the receipt of a certain definite sum viz. $14257. on account of the Alumni Professorship Fund and admitted the use of the interest on this money for the emergent needs of the Institution pending the completion of the fund by the Alumni.

The report concluded with the recommendation that in order to fully carry out the intent of the old resolutions and to fairly cover any claim legal or equitable that might arise on account of interest that the Board should set apart from their funds the sum of $25000. for the establishment of an Alumni Professorship in Penna. College and that the Chair of Mathematics should hereafter be known as the Alumni Professorship Chair of Mathematics.

This action of the Board was accepted by the Alumni Asso. at its meeting on Tuesday night June 14. 1904. as being a satisfactory settlement of the matters involved.

Seriously Injured.

Conrad Hamm, of Sinsheim, conductor on the night freight was seriously injured on last Friday night. He was standing on a freight car as it went under the shed at the freight office and was struck and thrown off the car to the ground. Dr. Stewart found that there was a compound fracture of one leg between knee and hip, and a big wound on the head. Dr. Stewart went with the injured man on the special train the same night to the Baltimore City Hospital. He is a single man and while seriously hurt it is believed he is not fatally injured.

Horrible Disaster

On Wednesday of last week steamboat "General Slocum" with an excursion of 1500 souls on board of St. Mark's German Lutheran Church took fire in New York waters, near Hell Gate, and though assistance came from other boats and from shore, in a short time nearly 800 lives were lost. The boats found to date are 600, number missing 200.

Father T. J. Crotty conferred the medals and diplomas. To Frances Althoff a post graduate, a gold medal, to the graduating class, diplomas, and to Francis X. Carver, a post graduate, a gold medal. The graduates were: Ella Brinkerhoff, Bessie Breighner, Mary Ramer and Dora Stock.

In the closing address Father Crotty said he returned thanks to the school for their good entertainment. It was wrong to look upon graduation as a sad time. It had been the happiest time of his life and was the happiest time in the lives of boys and girls, they were going to show the value and worth of the training given them. He referred to the Sisters as the noblest of women and that the children by following their teaching would make of themselves the best of men and women.

Gas Company is Convicted.

The case against the Gettysburg Gas Company for polluting Rock creek with coal gas tar was heard last week by Justice Hill. C. H. Wilson, John Sheeds, Powers Pittenruff, M. Stallsmith and Herman Kappes testified that coal gas tar was permitted by the Company to escape into Stevens' Run and Rock Creek on May 30. Dr. Henry Stewart and Dr. J. P. Dalbey testified that coal gas tar was destructive of animal and fish life. The company submitted no evidence. The Justice held the Company to be convicted under the evidence of polluting stream and killing fish and fined it $100. The Company has taken out an allocatur and case will be heard by Judge Swope.

Permanent Settlements

The Reading railroad will not double track. It is building extensive switches for the N. G. P. and proposes some permanent betterments. It is planned to fill up all the trestles and widen some of the cuts and take out some of the curves. All the bridges are being overhauled and strengthened. Every part of road bed is being put in the best of shape, for the purpose as it is thought so as to put some of the heavier engines on the road, engines that can do the work of two of the present power.

Fire and Excitement.

Littlestown had a good sized excitement on Monday night of last week over a very small fire. A boy clerking in the store of L. M. Alleman Hardware Co. had been packing eggs in a crate and stood a lighted candle on the crate and went away and forgot it. The candle burnt down and fell in the box. When the alarm was given L. M. Alleman and Harry Gintling went into the store room and threw the crate out the window. There was some difficulty to convince the crowd which gathered to throw water and fight a fire that it was all in the egg crate thrown out.

The law of Maryland would make a married woman liable and if the Court was of the opinion that this should control in this State judgment was to be entered in favor of plaintiff. D. P. McPherson, Esq., argued for plaintiff and G. J. Benner, Esq., for defendant and decision reserved.

The International Correspondent School, now for the use of the International Text Book Co. vs. C. W. Bucher, the motion of plaintiff to be allowed to change action from assumpsit to trespass was argued by D. P. McPherson for plaintiff and W. C. Sheely for defendant and decision reserved.

Adam Ertter vs. Chas. M. Cott, motion of Plaintiff for new trial in case where verdict was found for defendant G. J. Benner and Wm. Hersh, Esqs, appeared for plaintiff and argued. W. C. Sheely, Esq., and Wm. and Wm. Arch. McClean for defendant. Motion was overruled and judgment ordered to be entered on verdict for defendant.

C. B. Schwartz, admr. vs. S. L. Johns, motion for new trial in case in which verdict was found in effect for plaintiff for $1000 was argued by Wm. McSherry, Esq., for defendant and W. C. Sheely, Esq., for plaintiff and decision was reserved.

Sarah Yengst vs. Fillmore Peters, motion of plaintiff for judgment for costs where verdict had been for defendant and defendant to return to plaintiff nine bushels of wheat was argued. Wm. and Wm. Arch. McClean and D. P. McPherson, Esqs. represented plaintiff and W. C. Sheely, Esq. defendant. Decision was reserved.

The case stated between Supervisors of Straban township vs. County of Adams was argued by John D. Keith, Esq., for plaintiff and Wm. P. Quimby, Esq., for defendant. The toll gate house on York pike abutted on the turnpike. After the pike was condemned the question was did the house belong to the county having paid damages or to the township, where the burden of removing it would fall. After argument and by consent judgment for value of property was ordered to be entered in favor of plaintiff less the costs incurred by county in sale of same.

The exceptions to report of viewers laying out a road in Liberty township from a point in road leading from Emmitsburg to Diehl's mill, to a point in road leading from Emmitsburg and Waynesboro Turnpike to the Borough of Fairfield, involving only questions of necessity were withdrawn by W. C. Sheely, counsel for exceptions, and reviewers were asked to be appointed.

Motion for re-argument of exceptions to the decision of the Court in petition of Lillie Gleason, in estate of Michael Spangler, deceased, was refused.

Exceptions to Auditor's report disposing of exceptions to and distributing balance shown by first and final account of W. M. Shank, admr. of Geo. A. Shank, deceased, were argued and decision reserved.

Three divorces were decreed by the Court on the ground of desertion. John Goodermuth from Hannah Mary Goodermuth; Ervin Brough of Latimore township from Phoebe A. Brough, nee Day; Florence A. Weaver from David M. Weaver.

Sheriff's deeds of Spalding and Dittenhafer properties were acknowledged in open Court and distribution of proceeds decreed nisi.

Inquest on real estate of Edw. Emlet, dec'd, 113 acres in Tyrone township, was returned and rule granted on heirs to accept or refuse same at appraised value.

Inquest on real estate of David Border, dec'd, 130 acres in Reading township, was returned and rule granted.

While we may have at time you read this 150 Dress and Walking Skirts left we are broken up in sizes and many of the cloths cannot be reordered so down goes the price to quicken your buying. ### Mid Summer Dress Goods

ALMOST six months gone of 1904 and we desire to say to our patrons not boastfully, but because we believe they will rejoice with us, that the newly enlarged store has done the increased business we planned and hoped for. We know that the increased expenditure of rebuilding and enlargement is appreciated. At no time has the comfort of this store been so much in evidence as now while the thermometer has been soaring---at all times of the day we have a delightful breeze of air---and shopping here is as pleasant and comfortable as reading about fashions under a spreading oak.

duction sale from a larger assortment than will be found anywhere outside of the large city stores. Colors and styles to suit taste and to fit all forms but not all sizes of each kind. Misses Skirts reduced one-fourth.

FOR ONE WEEK ONLY Wool Dress Goods--Opportunity Extraordinary

In order to lower the money value of our Wool Dress Goods stock we will sell without reservation for one week beginning June 23 and continuing to 29, all Dress Goods at one-fourth off, this includes wool dress goods of every character and color.

REMNANTS at one-half price. A money saving time for you even if you lay the goods away for some months.

EMBROIDERY, LACES, APPLIQUES AND MEDALIONS

We are safe in making the assertion that in no store anywhere outside of a metropolis is there such a stock of fine Laces and Embroidery as we show. The stock at present is twice too large. You know what that means here. We desire to clean up odds and ends accumulating from a brisk season running from 1 yd. to 10 and in order to do so quickly have remarked them at much less than the regular prices. In laces will be found some high class as well as medium qualities in every right kind of trimming Lace. Also about 1000 yds. of Remnant Embroidery, some of them mill remnants, others from our own stock, at half and two-thirds price value. This is good fortune for you as the lot embraces widths and grades for every use. These special bargain lots will be separate from our regular priced lines. There is never any "make out" about special price sales here.

Splendid Values In SHIRT WAISTS AND SHIRT WAIST SUITS

The Shirt Waist like the man's straw hat has come to stay, as a hot weather garment and no lady can have too many of them. The very best brain work has been put on the designing of Shirt Waists and Suits this season because it has become one of the greatest branches of the garment business---and while we have done our best to fill the demand with only such made goods as we care to sell---we have not kept up with it. Now, however, we have received a belated order of 5 doz. PERSIAN LAWN WAISTS (a drop only if they had reached us in May as we intended) every one worth $1.25 that we will sell at $1.00.

About 3 doz., some just received, (belated) goods worth $1.50 to $3.50 will be closed at a cut price.

About 40 Mercerized Vesting Waists left from early spring selling that were $2.50 to $4.00 at $1.50 for a choice to close.

Hot Weather Silk Shirt Waists $3.

White and Black---dressy and comfortable $3.75 to $4.75.

Black and Colored, Poie de Soie, Crepe de Chene, dressy, $5.

Shirt Waist Suits $1.50, $2 to $5.

TAILORED SUITS

If you contemplate a trip to the fair, seashore, mountains, anywhere, one of these elegant Tailored Suits is a necessity. If too warm to wear the jacket at all times, there's the skirt to wear with separate waists. We desire to clean the racks entirely of what were bought for spring selling and so down goes the price, one-fourth. As there is only one or so of a color or kind we think it useless to give descriptions, but to impress the saving more fully. We wish you to contemplate the price cut.

Was $20 now $15.

Was $15 now $11.25.

Was $10 now $7.50.

A number of between prices.

CARPETS RUGS AND MATTINGS

that has sold at $1.39 which we offer in this sale at $1 suitable for sun or rain. Also have gone over our stock and remarked about 50 others in both men's and ladies' sizes that were from $1 to $5, some colored, and marked most of them down to two-thirds and some to half.

We are showing a very elegant assortment of the newest colors and styles bought from one of the very best factories that we marked at the usual

VALUABLE PUBLIC LIBRARY

EAST BERLIN HAS A LIBRARY FOUNDED
NEARLY SEVENTY YEARS AGO.

A Movement is on Foot to Better Preserve
it and Make it More Useful.

East Berlin, June 20.—Not all our knowledge seeking young people of this town and vicinity seem to know that in the old school building is a very large book case, containing about 700 volumes of choice reading matter, a large number of newspapers and magazines which were put on file at different times since the library started.

The collection of books is the result of the work of the "Berlin Improvement Society," which was organized Dec. 23, 1836, for the purpose of "Reading, improving and criticising."

Among the names of the men who met for organization on above date are John McCreon, a Lutheran minister and school teacher, Dr. Geo. L. Faus, Dr. David H. Mellinger, Wm. Wolff,
Alexander Patterson, W. S. Hildebrand, later a member of the House of Representatives, Rev. Edwin
B. Raffenberger, who delivered a lecture here for the benefit of the Society on "Braddock's Route," Jan. 4, 1837, Jos. J. Kuhn, elected to office of Associate Judge in county, Miss Jane E.
K. Rupp, a daughter of J. D. Rupp, a translator and author of a large volume, a copy of which is now in the library, entitled "The History and Topography of Dauphin, Cumberland, Franklin, Bedford, Adams and Perry counties."

Letters are here carefully kept on file of the following noted persons who were elected honorary members: Geo.
M. Dallas, Thaddeus Stevens, James
Buchanan, Moses McClean, Simon
Cameron, Charles B. Trego, a model of fine penmanship, Wm. McSherry, Edward McPherson, James A. Garfield, Dec. 8, 1880, and numerous others. The oldest book in the library is a Dutch one printed at Amsterdam, Holland, 1649.

A number of the citizens of this place, realizing the value of the old library, propose to start a movement to more effectively preserve it and make it the nucleus of a still larger public library.

Jacob B. Grove, of Reading township, recently purchased the property of R. E. Brown in Reading township, near Stouffer's School house, of about 25 acres, consideration $2,500. Mr.
Grove intends to go into the trucking business.

In order to have a more perfect drainage, Daniel Wagner had the piping on Harrisburg St. dug out and laid much deeper in order to drain the water from two cellars near the square.
The work cost about $80 and was all at
Mr. Wagner's individual expense.

J. F. Myers, of West End, has added a new porch to his home which greatly enhances the value and appearance of his property.

Our painters have been very busy during the spring. Among those who have had their houses painted are Lewis Myers, Ezra Brown, Harry Miller, P. C. Smith, J. F. Myers, Miss Sallie Smith and Mrs. Heagy.

Last week our town Council had the reservoir cleaned and the piping through the town washed out so as to afford clean water for those who use it a very commendable work.

We notice on walks through town that some one is marking and defacing dwellings by drawing crayons of different colors across the houses, sometimes the whole length of the building.
This has been done to freshly painted houses. Our town is wearing a nice, bright appearance and to have houses so marked when property owners take pride in keeping their buildings in good shape produces an exasperation that would mean no good to the scribbling defacers if caught.

The School Directors of East Berlin borough organized on Monday evening by electing William Meckley President, Dr. R. P. Feiser, Secretary and D. A. March, Treasurer.

Reading township School Directors organized this month and elected J.
O. Garber, President, H. B. Dicks,
Secretary and John A. Wehler, Treasurer.

trip to this place one day last week.

tin Slagle purchased new mowers last week.
Chas. Haverstock bought a new binder recently.

were visiting friends and relatives in Hanover, on Saturday and Sunday.

trip to Ladiesburg on Thursday.
Warren Sterner of York was visiting friends in this place last week.
Miss Sallie Sawyer and David Spangler made a trip to Manchester on Saturday where the former will spend some time visiting friends and relatives.
Farmers are busy hauling hay to market and making their barns empty for this seasons crop which is expected to be a very large one.
The cherry crop of this season is expected to be exceedingly large.
Mrs. Jessie Spangler of this place is still very ill at this writing. c. w. w.

WHEAT AND CORN CROP LOOK WELL

Heidlersburg, June 18. — Mrs.
Hiram Dentler died last week aged 55 years, funeral was held on Saturday the 11th, with interment at Franklin Church, York County.

the wheat will be a good crop if nothing happens.

BUTTER, BEES & ROOSTER STOLEN

Cashit wn, June 21.—The Franklin township school board reorganized on Monday June 6th by electing John H.
Diehl secretary, Aaron Cutchall president and James Kimple treasurer.
The other three members of the board are John E. Hartman, John B. Haverstock and John H. Cluck. A mill tax was laid, same as last year.

Adam Deardorff had about six lbs.
of butter stolen out of his spring house a few nights ago. Some time ago he had a scap of bees carried several yards from the house, the bees killed and the honey stolen.

One morning several days ago Geo.
Sharrah found a strange rooster about 100 yards from his house in the woods.
The rooster is not owned by any of his neighbors. How he got there is a mystery. The supposition is he escaped from thieves. The owner can get his rooster.

Amos W. Newman lost his bob-tailed sorrel horse by death last week.

Many people are complaining that the cherries are drying up and falling off.

David Stover is very poorly at this writing.

SNAKES SEEM TO BE PLENTY

Buchanan Valley, June 21 —

the cold storage of apples and pears.
A. W. Cole killed a huge black snake upwards of five feet long also a small rattler. John McDonnell also killed a rattler.

The crows are unusually plenty and destructive this summer. The Farmers are greatly annoyed by them in their corn fields.

Jacob Brady hauled and sold about 1500 bushels of charcoal this summer to different towns. S. C. S.

THE STORY OF WEDDING BELLS

A VERY PRETTY WEDDING IN ST. JAMES
LUTHERAN CHURCH LAST WEEK

Three Brides Taken by Their Grooms From the County to Live Else where

Easterday Ziegler.

Thursday morning, June 16th, at 8 o'clock, Miss Jessie A. Ziegler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Ziegler, was married to Rev. G. H. Easterday, of Jefferson, Md., in St. James Lutheran church. The bride wore a beautiful white gown of Peau-de-cheyne, trimmed with white lace applique, and carried a large bouquet of white carnations, tied with white ribbon. There were no bridesmaids.
The ushers were four members of the Senior class of College and of the Druid society, Messrs. Barkley, Froehlich, Layman and Weaver. Rev. Dr. Milton Valentine performed the ceremony. Miss Carrie Tawney played the march from Lohengrin as the wedding party entered the church and Mendelssohn's march as they left it.
A wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride, after which Mr.
and Mrs. Easterday left on the 10:20 train on W. M. R. R. for the groom's home, from there they will go to their new home in Millville, Pa.

They received a great many beautiful presents, a lot of fine linen, a number of pieces of cut glass and silverware. Miss Medora Easterday, sister of groom, was among the out of town guests.

Grove-Appler

Tuesday evening, June 14, at 8 o'clock, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Truman Grove, in Straban township, Miss Beatrice Grove and Joseph U. Appler were married by Rev. Dr. Barkley, of the Reformed church. The bride wore a gown of handsome white silk and carried a bouquet of white roses. A lady from Baltimore, was bridesmaid and a brother of the groom best man. About 40 guests were present, including Mr. and Mrs. U. M.
Appler, grandparents of the groom, who celebrated their golden wedding about a year ago, and a party of eight from Baltimore and a number of other friends. Miss Bessie Collins, cousin of the groom played the wedding march. After the ceremony the guests were invited to the dining room where very fine refreshments were served.
